

Mothering Sunday

There is a prize we cannot pay

There is a debt we will always owe

We live in love on every day,

A mother's love that will never go.

We know such aid is never done

In hands that care and ever nourish

Like flowers reaching for the Sun

In her love we grow and flourish.